Planning

- We did our research
- Brainstormed
- Got the LCR upper administration on side
- Got a budget
- Reached out to LCR colleagues
- Reached out to campus supporters outside of LCR

What We Did

- Started before OA Week e.g. regular communication within LCR, “Training Tuesday” on OA
- Employed the visual element to a great extent
- An OA Week “area” in every library
  - E.g. MacKimmie (main) library
What We Did (part 2)

- Gave stuff away
- Went beyond the campus
- Worked with the media
- Visitors and presentations:
  - Jennifer McLennan, SPARC
  - Leslie Chan, Bioline International
SCHOLARSHIP AND LEARNING IN AN OPEN ACCESS KNOWLEDGE ENVIRONMENT

WHAT ARE THE REAL OPPORTUNITIES OF OPEN ACCESS?

In this lively and provocative presentation, Leslie Chan outlines the new possibilities for innovative scholarship through digital and networking technology.

He warns that barriers to participation and uncertainty about career advancement are raising new challenges, and invites us to help design a new Open Access environment.

LESLIE CHAN is Director of BioLine International, a nonprofit publishing institute providing an open access platform for peer-reviewed journals from 18 development countries.

Free admission and refreshments will be provided.

Some Results of OA Week 2009

- More knowledge of OA on campus
- Good vibe about OA within LCR (at least)
- Pro-OA motion from the Students’ Union
- More promotion of the U of C OA suite
- Momentum for OA Week 2010
Some Words of Wisdom

- Start early
- Plan big but…
- Can do things without money but money is also good to have
- OA Week goes beyond OA Week
- Do the regular promotional stuff but try other things
- A team is good
- People like orange t-shirts
- Have fun!

OA Week 2010

- Same team is involved
- Plans are afoot e.g.
  - Jean-Claude Guédon, Université de Montréal, will be our main speaker
  - May have a panel of some sort
