

UPDATES

Official Launch of CAMS

CAMS “The Community for Analytical Measurement Science” will be officially launched on the 9th of April at RSC Burlington House. Details of the launch meeting and how to register will appear on the CAMS website <https://cams-uk.co.uk/>.

Update on CAMS:

Bringing the analytical community together

Providing world-class analytical training

Facilitating innovation industry-led research

Since our last update on CAMS, we have been very busy engaging with the Analytical Measurement Science community below are some key highlights:

1. Five CAMS Fellowships have been awarded.
2. Invitations to apply for CAMS Co Funded Lectureships and Postdoctoral Researchers have been advertised on the CAMS Website and details sent to UK and Irish Universities.
3. Applications for 2019 CAMS Membership have been sent to UK based industry and instrument companies.
4. Applications for 2019 CAMS Membership have been sent out to UK and Irish Universities
5. The first Executive Board Meeting will take place on the 1st March.
6. Work is progressing on Basic Skills “E learning packages” and they will be ready for member access by the end of March.
7. The Website is now being actively used by a number of interest groups to promote measurement related meeting, if anybody has a meeting they wish to publicise please contact the CAMS Secretariat secretariat@cams-uk.co.uk
8. The 2019 online Webinar Program for CAMS-UK is currently being drawn up. If you have any suitable webinar(s) that you may wish to be considered for inclusion in the program, please contact the CAMS secretariat.
9. The CAMS Website now includes a number of best practice guidance documents <https://cams-uk.co.uk/measurement-best-practice>. If you have any suitable documents that you feel would help promote measurement best practice, please contact the CAMS Secretariat.